

USTA NORTH CAROLINA

NORTH CAROLINA TENNIS FOUNDATION RECEIVES GRANT FROM BOMBAS

Supporting NJTLs

The North Carolina Tennis Foundation (NCTF) is proud to receive a grant from Bombas that will provide 2,250 pairs of socks to National Junior Tennis and Learning (NJTL) chapters, adaptive tennis groups and under-resourced tennis programs.

Bombas, a comfort focused sock and apparel brand, has a mission to help those in need by providing socks to a variety of charities and organizations across the country.

"We are so excited to receive a grant from Bombas for 2,250 pairs of socks to distribute throughout North Carolina," Amy Franklin, NCTF Director of Development & Programs, said.

The NCTF supports organizations and programs that enhance the lives of people through tennis and education. NCTF also provides opportunities for NJTL chapters and adaptive tennis programming for those with physical or intellectual differences.

"We have a commitment to serving under-resourced youth and adaptive programs," Franklin said. "We are so excited to receive this grant from Bombas and to be able to share it with our program participants throughout the state!"

NJTL chapters, adaptive tennis groups, and under-resourced tennis programs can request socks by filling out a JotForm at <https://form.jotform.com/201733721863151>.

Learn more about Bombas and its mission at bombas.com.